ARTIST PROFILE
JONNYFORHIGHER

JONNYFORHIGHER, TEED STREET WINTER FOREST SCENE

Street artist JonnyForHigher is another artist whose works can be found dotted around the precinct. On Teed Street, the moody Winter Forest Scene can be found on the roller door beside Isabel Harris. Not too far along the street, the artist has created a mural that sits along the wall of Teed Street Larder. An optical illusion of sorts is created by the painting of trees sitting alongside the real trees planted in the courtyard and adding colour to the wall. As well as the Teed Street murals, Jonny's larger works can also be found at the back of the Gordon Harris carpark on Gillies Avenue. Alongside artist Jacob Chrisohou, the work is a tribute to 20th century New Zealand painter, Rita Angus, featuring two of her famous works, Rutu and Cass. On Broadway outside the Olympic Pools, Jonny4Higher created a Newmarket Family Tree to outline the heritage businesses in the area. The artist used a native Whau Bush, namesake to Mt Eden (Maungawhau) and used the trunk to represent Broadway and the branches as surrounding streets. Each business is situated approximate to their location around the precinct.

ARTIST PROFILE
FLOX

FLOX, STATION SQUARE MURAL

Auckland-based artist, Flox has created several murals around the Newmarket precinct. Flox has also been commissioned by businesses in Newmarket to create unique murals on their buildings, the Gordon Harris mural can be seen on the corner of Gillies Ave and Eden Street. Blunt Umbrellas also commissioned a Flox mural on York Street as part of a brand collaboration with the artist, which was then transformed into an umbrella print. Her most recent mural, commissioned by the Newmarket Business Association, is an artwork in Station Square outside the Newmarket Train Station.
